Clackamas Co. Farm Bureau offers $15K in scholarships

Clackamas County Farm Bureau supports an informed and educated agricultural industry. The County Farm Bureau is again offering $15,000 in agricultural scholarships.

A number of scholarships ranging between $1,000 and $3,000 per recipient will be awarded to students pursuing a two- or four-year college degree in agriculture. The scholarships are available to any Clackamas County high school graduate, resident, or prior scholarship recipient. A total of $15,000 in scholarships will be given by Clackamas County Farm Bureau.

The application deadline is April 15, 2011.

“If Oregon wishes to continue to be a world-class supplier of food and other agricultural crops, we need to continuously support higher education and research opportunities for the next generation of farmers and ranchers,” said Tom Winterrowd, scholarship committee chairman of Clackamas County Farm Bureau.

For the scholarship application, visit the Oregon Farm Bureau website at oregonfb.org (located under “Programs” menu) or contact Tom Winterrowd at (503) 263-2696.
