Barb Iverson reelected as Oregon Farm Bureau 3rd Vice President

At the Oregon Farm Bureau 78th Anniversary State Convention, Barb Iverson of Clackamas County Farm Bureau was reelected to a fourth two-year term as OFB Third Vice President. Iverson was elected by the OFB House of Delegates, a grassroots body comprised of volunteer leaders from a multitude of agriculture backgrounds representing each county Farm Bureau.

“Farm Bureau benefits greatly from Barb’s steady leadership, knowledge about farming, and dedication to protecting and strengthening Oregon agriculture now and for future generations,” said OFB President Barry Bushue. “I congratulate her on her reelection as Oregon Farm Bureau’s Third Vice President.”

As OFB Third Vice President, Iverson coordinates OFB’s legislative issue advisory committees, comprised of volunteer agriculture producers, to maximize their effectiveness. She also assists OFB President Barry Bushue and the Board of Directors as needed.

Iverson grows tulips, vegetables, and other flowers on her family-owned and operated Wooden Shoe Tulip Farm in Woodburn.

The state’s largest general farm organization, Oregon Farm Bureau (OFB) is a voluntary, grassroots, nonpartisan, nonprofit organization representing the interests of the state’s farmers and ranchers in the public and policymaking arenas.

First established in Oregon in 1919, Farm Bureau is organized in all 36 counties and has more than 8,000 member families that are professionally engaged in agriculture. Barry Bushue, an east Multnomah County berry and nursery stock producer, is OFB’s 15th President.
